RE: BOARD OF ZONING ADJUSTMENT CASE NO. 960

Dear Mr. McClelland:

Since our conversation last week concerning the proper treatment and disposal of waste water from your proposed rug cleaning business, I have learned that the final approval for waste water disposal from a facility such as this does not lie with my department. I spoke with Ed Sears, Chief of Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Southwest Regional Office, Water Section, who told me that since this is an industrial process, his agency would ultimately be involved in approval. As I understood, per my conversation with Mr. Sears, there are a few options you might explore.

1. Provide holding tanks and contract with a waste removal company such as Safety Kleen or Sunbelt Environmental for disposal.
2. Haul to an approved site in the City of Springfield. We discussed this option for your mobile operation and I would advise you to contact Randy Lyman at 864-1487. He works in the Surveillance and Enforcement area of the Sanitary Services Section of the Public Works Department, City of Springfield. I have spoken with Mr. Lyman about your situation.
3. Provide an engineering study with a design for waste water treatment based on the treatability of the specific chemicals you will be using, their concentration, volume of wastes generated, etc. and submit this to DNR for their suggestion, guidance or approval of an on site disposal system.
